

Reflection Questions About Data Analysis

1. What themes emerged, if any, from the data we analyzed?
2. Of these themes, which seem to be most important? Why?
3. What do the data reveal that is related to our inquiry question?
4. What do the data reveal that is unrelated to the original focus but that may be important to pay attention to?
5. What new questions—about our inquiry focus or about the data itself—do I or does the group have?
6. What changes, if any, do we need to make to our research questions, actions, or data collection plan? Why might these changes be necessary?